They Belong With Us—

It isn't pleasant to have to refuse help to a neighbor in trouble, and Carmel is placed in this position more frequently than is generally realized. Calls come to Chief Roy Fratley from The Point, Hatton Fields, Carmel Woods, for police protection to which he cannot respond. The fire department has to refuse equally urgent requests for help. The police and the fire department cannot leave the area it is their responsibility to protect.

Especially distressing was the call that came to the fire department a week ago that the Trevett home in Lower Mesa was on fire. The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department could not respond, and by the time the state fire trucks arrived—it's a long drive from the top of Carmel Hill to Lower Mesa—the fire was well advanced. Water had to be hauled from the high school in the state trucks as there were no fire hydrants near by. Except for the library and garage, the entire dwelling with the many beautiful things the Trevetts have collected were destroyed.

"We were handicapped by lack of hydrant facilities," said Assistant State Ranger Jean Sindel.

A few blocks away there are hydrant facilities—within the city limits.

There are other equally beautiful homes, equally unprotected throughout the Mesa, Hatton Fields, Carmel Woods, Mission Track, and the thickly settled area of The Point. The fact that these people are on the other side of

See The Hose Cart And Cast A Vote At Firehouse Monday

The polls will be open for balloting on three members for the Carmel Sanitary Board and for Sanitary District Assessor Monday, September 18, from seven in the morning until seven in the evening at the Firehouse, south side of Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission streets.

As there is no contest in the election, a light vote is expected, though it is the hope of the good citizens, who appreciate the unpaid service the board members give the community, that enough voters will turn out to constitute a substantial complimentary vote.

As an inducement, it should be pointed out that the original hose cart, the first fire equipment provided by the City of Carmel to the Volunteer Fire Department, is still at the Firehouse in plain sight of anyone coming to vote. There is a big, long, story about the historical aspects of the fire department in this issue of The Pine Cone-Cymbal which it is hoped will whip up an appetite in the readers to view the hose cart—and vote.

Names appearing on the ballot for Sanitary Board members are: Hugh Comstock, Clayton Neill, and Dr. T. Grant Phillips. Bernard Rowntree is running for re-election as assessor.

Clang Goes The Church Bell! Hook Up The Chemical! Out With The Hose Cart! Hurrah For The Volunteers

"Throughout its history most of the improvements in the Carmel Fire Department have not been made until after a serious fire showed the town how badly they were needed," Fire Marshal Robert Leidig told the Pine Cone in an interview this week. "There wouldn't have been a fire department at all when I first came to Carmel if there hadn't been a near-disaster a few months before."

Several weeks ago the city council granted a $15 a month "salary" to the Fire Marshal, which, as it hardly compensates him for his time, was probably meant to serve as a gesture of appreciation. It also served as an excuse to get Bob Leidig to talk about the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, which he knows more about than anyone else, since he served as its chief for 17 years (without "salary") and has been connected with it since its beginning. And that beginning goes quite a way back, for there was a fire department before Carmel had a city government—the town wasn't incorporated until 1916. The fire department was in existence before recorded history—the Pine Cone was founded in 1915. When the first play was produced in the Forest Theatre in 1910 the fire department was already two years old. It had come into being a year before Bob Leidig, who had arrived only recently in Monterey from Illinois with his mother and brothers Ben and Lawrence, came to Carmel in 1908.

He found a town of scattered wooden houses, board and batten stores, sandy streets, acetylene lights and board sidewalks. First he got a job at the grocery store on the corner of San Carlos and Ocean Avenue, and then he joined the fire department; and not as an amateur; he had been a volunteer fireman in his home town, Vandalia, Illinois, since he was sixteen. And the reason there was a fire department was because a brush-fire had raged through Paradise Park the fall before. If the wind had been right, the fire would have swept down through the town and wiped it out. Carmel got a scare and the fire department was born. J. F. Devendorf, who was subdividing fields and woods into building lots, bought a supply of buckets, shovels and sacks, the first fire equipment, and stored them in the first fire house, a shack situated behind the site of the present fire house. His road gang and the rest of the male population of Carmel—it wasn't numerous—were the fire department. And the Methodist church bell was the alarm.

These primitive fire fighting arrangements sufficed until an oil stove set fire to Daingerfield's. Daingerfield had the butcher shop on Ocean Avenue and "You took what he wanted you to have, not what you asked for—he was the only butcher in town," Leidig recalled this week with amusement. When Daingerfield's caught on fire, it wasn't a question of saving the butcher shop. The question was, would they be able to save the town? A blaze out of control would sweep through the tree-studded village like a forest fire. The whole town joined in the fight to keep the fire confined to Daingerfield's and the town was lucky. "The wind was in the right direction," Carmel was spared; so the citizens dug barbecue pits in the sand of Ocean Avenue, finished roasting the meat from Daingerfield's and discussed the advisability of improving the fire depart-

The Pine Cone came into existence shortly after this impromptu barbecue, and in the issue of June 9, 1915, is the information that a citizens' committee had raised enough money by subscription to buy a forty-gallon Stemple chemical fire engine. On June 30, the new Stemple arrived in Monterey and was hauled to Carmel behind the Leidigs' truck. By that time Bob Leidig and his brother Fred, who had followed the family out from Illinois, not only owned the store where Bob had taken a job in 1908, but owned the hardware business next door also. Bob had married Isabel Martin, who was born on the Mission Ranch, the original home of the pioneer Martins, now the Mission Ranch Club.

Robert Leidig was elected a trustee, along with S. J. Wyatt, when officers were voted for at a meeting at the Manzanita club to form an organized fire department in July of that same year. B. W. Adams was elected foreman, J. E. Nichols, assistant foreman, and Douglas Greely, secretary. Nichols, who was a carpenter, bossed the job while the newly organized volunteer fire department personally built their fire house on the lot now occupied by Carleton's grocery. The house was later moved to the spot behind Wilson's building on the corner of Ocean and Dolores, and the firemen held their meetings on the second floor of

Philosophy Course By Dr. E. O. Sisson Offered At Adult School Opening Monday, New Writing, French Classes

Among the new courses to be offered when fall term of the Carmel Adult school opens Monday is a class in philosophy to be conducted by Dr. E. O. Sisson, John Westover, principal, announced this week.

Dr. Sisson, before his retirement to Carmel, taught philosophy and education at the University of Illinois, the University of Washington and Reed College; and lectured at the University of California and at Harvard. For several years he has been conducting a discussion group on current political and economic problems under the sponsorship of the Carmel Adult School.

Concerning the new course, "Philosophy Here and Now," which he is giving in response to the numerous requests from Carmel people who are anxious for an opportunity to study philosophy under an instructor so well equipped to teach it, Dr. Sisson says: "The course is offered to meet two definite calls, one for a continuous study of great events in the contemporary scene, and the other for some orientation in the field of philosophy itself. If we consider philosophy to be in essence, as John Dewey puts it, 'a criticism of the social and moral strifes of the day,' the combining of these two aims would seem to be a reasonable and feasible enterprise. This hope is strengthened by William James's saying that philosophy (he

Prisoner of War No. 18443 B

This week, Edmond Capone, for thirteen years a resident of Carmel, received his first letter since the outbreak of the second World War from his nephew and godson, Jules Meulemans, a soldier of the Belgian army who has been in a German prison camp for four years. Jules, son of Capone's sister, was born in Belgium in October of 1914 and was five years old before his father saw him, for his

Liquor Men Want Town Dry V-Day

Heavy drinkers from way back had better start growing a hump in preparation for the V Day Drought in Carmel, because there isn't going to be anything of any known alcoholic content for sale here on the day the Germans give up and decide to sit the rest of this one out.

All over the state—and the nation, for that matter—the wise ones in authority are getting goose pimples at the prospect of the American populace getting drunk and throwing bricks through plate glass windows out of exuberance when they hear that Germany has surrendered. We hadn't been aware that Germany was that important, as our attention has been concentrated on the Japs, but the wise ones in authority probably know what they are talking about, and if they think that the American people are going to get riotous over the final wilting of the Germans, and want to shut up the bars and liquor stores, it's all right with us, and the local liquor people with whom we talked yesterday.

It appears that Mayor P. A. McCreery is about to call a special meeting of the city council some time this week end and give out with a proclamation asking the bar and liquor store owners to close up their places of business on V Day. We phoned around to the various bar owners and found them not just co-operative, but enthusiastic. One had already written letters to the mayor and the chief of police saying he'd be only too pleased. Another told us that it suited him fine—boy, could he use a vacation!

As for whether the closing up of bars and liquor stores will actually curb the boisterousness of the celebration of the victory, these men were not prepared to venture an opinion, but just the same they were for it.

After our telephone poll, we began to suspect that the whole nation-wide movement to close bars on V Day originated with the liquor dealers. They probably figured it out as the only way they'd be free to celebrate the victory themselves.

Air Medal With Oak Leaf Cluster For Lt. Max Hagemeyer

Lt. Max Hagemeyer, son of Mrs. Hurd Comstock, has recently been awarded the Air Medal with first Oak Leaf Cluster for combat missions over enemy territory.

Max, a Carmel boy who went through Sunset School and Monterey High School, was attending San Jose State College when he enlisted in the Army Air Force. He is now flying a P-38 with the Ninth Air Force in France.

School Board, G. O. P. Members Tangle—Amiably, Of Course

By HAL GARROTT

The Carmel Men's Republican Club would have had a larger attendance Tuesday if some of its members had not wandered into a meeting of the school board by mistake.

"I thought it was the Republican club," confessed Jack Todd, "until Hugh Comstock said we couldn't discuss politics."

The Republican meeting at Sunset School was for the purpose of electing a permanent chairman to conduct the campaign.

"We're up against stiff competition," said temporary chairman Ed Ewig. "The Democrats have an indispensable man. We must have one, too, for our chairman."

Several members were nominated, but all begged off on account of other work. Corum Jackson, Ernest Morehouse and Jack Todd were appointed to search Carmel to find just the right man.

Edward Kuster offered his up-town office on Dolores street across from the Bank of Carmel for Republican headquarters. The offer was greeted with enthusiasm.

"Our next meeting will be Tuesday, September 26, at 8 p.m. in Sunset School, and every Republican man in this district is invited to attend."

"How about Democrats who have decided to vote for Dewey?" asked someone.

"They'll be welcome," said the chairman, "that is, if we can find a meeting place large enough to accommodate the crowd."

When the meeting adjourned the members filed out of the school room with more cheerfulness in their hearts than Republicans have felt in a dozen years.

"It looks good," said Bert Doolittle. And that seemed to be the general opinion.

The steering committee consists of Col. R. R. Wallace, Ernest Morehouse, Dr. G. H. Taubles, Hal Garrott, and Corum B. Jackson. On the general committee are John F. Todd, Henry F. Jurs, Edward Taylor, Frank Topping, B. M. Doolittle, Edward G. Kuster, Col. D. B. Leininger, and Durbin Sayers.

an imaginary line, which puts them outside the circle of protection, is not only unfortunate for them, it is also a loss for Carmel, for they cannot vote in city elections or run for office, and among them are a great many of the community's most intelligent, worth-while people. In all else but the legal sense they are citizens, since they participate in community life and contribute to it richly. Their membership is the backbone of the Carmel Music Society, the Musical Arts Club, the Art Gallery, the Red Cross, the churches. They not only participate in the cultural, intellectual and spiritual activities of the community, they furnish leadership.

"Fatal Card" Set For Opening On Thursday, Sept. 21

"The Fatal Card," next production of the Troupers of the Gold Coast under the Denny-Watrous Management, opens at the First Theatre, Monterey, on next Thursday evening, September 21, to run through Sunday the 24th, and week-ends thereafter. "The Fatal Card" is directed by Brobury Ellis, who has come to the coast from New York City, where he had been directing plays at the Henry Street Settlement. Mr. Ellis is assisted by his wife, Andrea Duncan, niece of the famous Isadora Duncan, and daughter of the New York producer, Augustin Duncan.

Cast for the lurid melodrama, "The Fatal Card," includes a number of new names, with the Gold Coast stock company of players, most of whom have now played over 100 performances, and some of the Troupers more than 300. The cast includes: Betty Elder, Vivian Murray, Barbara Bennett, Pvt. Bud Bowen, George McElroy, Pvt. John Geisler, Wayne Edwards, Brobury Ellis, Sam McGill, Dick Ruddy, Bob Ruddy, Jim Jensen, Pvt. Tony Thein, Betty Bass, Phyllis Setzer and Carmen Mercante.

"Fashion," directed by Douglas Hume, which has been running to packed houses since last July, plays its last two performances tonight and tomorrow night. There will be no Sunday performance, as that time will be given to rehearsal for "The Fatal Card."

as well as in spirit, and we believe that a good many of them want to come within the circle of protection. It means paying city taxes, but those taxes are low enough when they are looked upon as insurance—not the sort that gives you money in an attempt to compensate for the loss of many things that cannot be paid for in money, but the sort that guarantees to protect these things from destruction. THERE HAS BEEN NO SERIOUS PROPERTY DAMAGE FROM FIRE WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS FOR NINE YEARS. The complete destruction by fire of dwellings outside the city limits and within the immediate vicinity of Carmel is almost a yearly occurrence. —Wilma Cook.

"The Club" Gallops Into Coming Winter With New Gusto

By OLIVER BASSETT

"The Club," Carmel's High School organization, gathered its members together on the evening of Tuesday, September 12, and proceeded to build up a great layout for the months to come.

Under the guidance of Mr. Alvin L. Learned, club supervisor, three constitution officials were elected, consisting of: Irene Erickson, Jimmy Heisinger, and Suzita Cecil. After this came five committee chairmen: Entertainment committee, Pamela Dormody; Rules committee, Dean Rains; Membership committee, Joan Janda; Housing committee, Chet Knapp-Smith; Publicity committee, Oliver Bassett.

Then, with the fever of nominating and electing at its peak, the members immediately turned out five Sergeants-at-Arms: Jimmy Heisinger, Dean Rains, Daniel Bell, Bill Askew, and Bill Gargiulo.

By 8:15 the place had finally calmed down enough to go on with other matters, such as amendments to the constitution and terms of officers.

At 8:30 the mallet fell, ending the affair, after which the gang hung around a few minutes drinking a coke or two and then sauntered placidly home.

Chaplain Penoyer Sends Thanks From Wounded To Carmel

Somewhere in England wounded men in a hospital send thanks and appreciation to the women of Carmel who make scrap books. Mrs. Mark H. Penoyer, wife of Chaplain Penoyer, who is attached to the 159th General Hospital in England, received a letter from her husband with a special message for Mrs. J. C. Jordan, Mrs. Elizabeth C. James, Mrs. S. B. Cornell, and Mrs. Jane Trevvett, whose names came in with a bunch of scrap books made in Carmel. Chaplain Penoyer said that the men thoroughly enjoy them and he was delighted to be able to send greetings from the men to the women of his home town.

Chaplain Penoyer was stationed at Ft. Ord, where he was attached to the hospital unit. He went over seas early in the summer. Mrs. Penoyer and their daughter Joan live at First and Lobos and hope to make Carmel their permanent home.

Beulah Costa

By AGNES WILLISTON

Mrs. Beulah Costa, who died here last week, was born in Los Gatos and came to Carmel in the community's pioneer days—about 1912. She worked in Slevin's store for some time when Carmel was young. For the last few years she has divided her time between her ranch in Santa Clara Valley and Carmel.

Of a bright, attractive personality, she was beloved by her friends. Energetic and efficient, and withal unselfish, she made a place for herself that will be hard to fill.

She is survived by her husband, Albert Costa, who is government food inspector of canneries in this part of California; a son, Robert, now in navy training in Idaho; her mother, Mrs. Carrie Main of Carmel; two brothers, Delbert Main of Carmel and Gilbert Main of Los Angeles, and several nephews and nieces, some of whom are in the armed forces.

ALTAR GUILD

St. Margaret's Altar Guild members met for lunch at the Rectory in Hatton Fields on September 7, and planned their work for the coming year. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe, Mrs. H. C. Wood, Peggy Riker, chairman; Pat Post, Sue Dekker, Suzita Cecil, and Pat Bacon, who was elected to fill out the term of Secretary-treasurer since Duval Roberts has moved to Washington.

This group plans to meet the last Thursday in the month after school to study and sew for the church. At this last meeting they presented Mr. Hulsewe with a beautiful white stole, paid for with the money they had raised themselves.

PEBBLE BEACH SCHOOL BUS

Bus leaves Alvarado and Stevenson Drive at 8:00 a. m., Del Monte Lodge at 8:05 a. m.

Route (coming from Pacific Grove) is via Forest Lake Road to Stevenson Drive, to Seventeen Mile Drive, to Del Monte Lodge, via Cypress Drive and Palmero Way to Seventeen Mile Drive again, and in to Sunset School.

High School students may ride the regular bus to Carpenter street, or they may walk from down town, as they have ample time.

SOROPTIMIST CLUB

The Monterey Peninsula Soroptimist Club held a business meeting on Wednesday at the Normandy Inn for the purpose of electing delegates to the South West Regional Conference, which will be held in Chico in October. The delegates selected were Mrs. Florence Kimball, president of the club; Mrs. Nellie Taylor and Mrs. Pal Clark; alternates, Mrs. Dan Yount and Mrs. Floyd Rodgers.

The last regular meeting of the club was held in the garden of Miss Gertrude Rendtorff, where luncheon was served and the guests enjoyed a tour of the garden. Proceeds of the affair were given to the Welfare Fund. The club is always ready with time and money to give to any worthy cause. Each week it furnishes ten dozen doughnuts to the Red Cross Service Men's Club situated at Fremont and Munras in Monterey, where everything is free to men in the service. They recently furnished a sun-room at the Fort Ord Regional Hospital.

Local Movie Goers Turning Out For Beguiling "Jeannie"

The endearing charm of "Jeannie," engaging English film comedy now drawing crowds to the Playhouse, impelled conservative Time Magazine to go overboard with the following comment, "With nothing but their bare hands, but with intelligence, tenderness and characterization, the creators of 'Jeannie' have come up with the best light comedy of the year."

This beguiling picture surprise will be withdrawn Sunday night, and as the print must be immediately returned to New York there will be no opportunity this season for a "repeat" showing such as the Playhouse frequently arranges for a popular hit.

The usual Saturday matinee will take place tomorrow at two thirty, but there will be no Sunday matinee. In view of capacity attendance up to now, evening audiences have been advised by the Playhouse management to be in their seats at opening time, 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock.

Beginning Tuesday, a three-day offering at the Playhouse will be "Our Wife," an adult brand of comedy starring Melvyn Douglas and Ruth Hussey.

H. S. Pool Out Of Dream Stage; Survey Ordered

Perhaps there will be only 24 months to wait for a swim in the pool-to-be back of the gymnasium at the High School. The School Board took action at a meeting Tuesday night, moving that the site be surveyed prior to drawing plans for the pool, which they hope will be completed in two years.

A public meeting has been called by the Carmel School Board for Tuesday evening, October 10, for discussion of the proposed six year high school plan for the Carmel district.

Owing to crowded conditions at the Sunset School it is proposed that the Seventh grade be transferred to the High School. This would make for a junior high school of the seventh and eighth grades in addition to the regular senior high school of four grades.

A master plan for high school expansion at the Carmel plant has been prepared by the school architects and accepted by the State Department of Education. According to this plan junior and senior high school students would be almost entirely separate and yet have the common use of main structures such as the gymnasium, cafeteria, library, and the proposed auditorium.

The board sustains its decision that no students will be accepted from other districts without the consent of the other district.

J. W. Getsinger and Mrs. Helen Wood, Principal of Sunset School, will plan the holiday and celebration for "Victory Day" when it comes. This will be the victory over Germany. High School students are planning a field day of sports with a dance in the evening.

Mr. Getsinger reported having secured Mrs. R. B. Stoney as manager of the high school cafeteria.

Students turning out for the inter-school sports will be required to subscribe to an insurance policy costing $4 which protects them in all sports.

Maybe We Are Out Of Line! Maybe We Should Be Ashamed!

Are Carmel citizens so hardened to sin that they are not aware of the presence of evil, or are they so innocent, right-living, and clean-minded that they don't recognize wickedness when they meet it face to face?

Anyway, Boston knows what's bad. The Boston licensing bureau has refused to allow "The Drunkard" to be presented under that name in their city. And "The Drunkard" was produced brazenly in Carmel four (4) times in the past two weeks to paying audiences, and three (3) times for free to the soldiers at Fort Ord, at the hospital, and at the Carmel USO. At the paying performances it made $1,000.00 clear, for the Carmel Mission School. Father Michael O'Connell not only approved of it—he thought it was great!

Among the unregenerate who crowded Sunset Auditorium to hiss Lloyd Weer, the villain, and cheer Dan Welty, the hero, was Sgt. Elizabeth Carle, stationed in Monterey a few months ago as WAC recruiter. She came down from San Francisco especially to see the show, and brought with her a clipping sent to her by her mother in Boston, to whom she had written her intention of attending a performance of this dangerous play.

Betty Cole relayed the clipping to The Pine Cone yesterday. It is from the Boston Traveler, Thursday, August 31, and it says:

"Boston's 'fallen' still have a chance to be 'saved', and by P. T. Barnum's famous morals play, 'The Drunkard', but it won't be presented under that name.

"Banned by the Boston licensing board, which protested its title and some of the 'heavy drinking' in the play, the old 'tear-jerker' will be presented at the Casa Manana starting tonight, but under a different title and with some revision, according to a spokesman at the Huntington avenue night club."

Dr. Kinsell And Mother Shipton Sum Up The Situation

Those aesthetic individuals who deplore the frequency and casualness with which women appear in slacks, shorts, trousers, coveralls, and dungarees, not to mention Levis and jeans, receive little sympathy from Judge Dudley Kinsell's brother in Dallas, Texas, Dr. Benjamin Kinsell. To any moaning that men may make about the decline of femininity, brother Benjamin answers right back with, "You had plenty of warning," and quotes the following from Mother Shipton's Prophecy (Mother Shipton flourished in 1448) a copy of which he sent Judge Kinsell this week:

"And in the strange and far off days
The women shall adopt a craze
To dress like men and breeches wear,
And shear their lovely locks of hair.
They'll ride astride with brazen brow
As witches ride on broom-sticks now.
Then love shall die and marriage cease
And nature wane as babes decrease,
And wives shall fondle cats and dogs,
And men live much the same as hogs."

opportunity in the Sunset School shop evening class on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7 to 9. Monday sessions will be devoted to woodwork, Wednesday to pottery. Both beginners and those with experience will find interesting work with clay, coil built, turned on a potter's wheel, jiggered or cast in plaster and fired in an electric kiln. Woodwork is based upon individual projects which permit of a wide variety. Last year the range was from a chaise longue to a wooden ash tray. Woodworking machines are available for use at the high school Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7:00 to 9:00, Ernest R. Calley in charge.

The photography class, instructor Leota Tucker, will meet at the dark rooms at Sunset on Thursday evening, 7:30 to 9:30, and on Saturday, 2:00 to 4:00. Students have the use of the two dark rooms, one fitted with a 35 mm. and one with two 5x7 enlargers and printer. The instruction and chemicals are free, but the students must furnish their own paper for prints.

This course in photography should be particularly attractive to service people or anyone who is not sure he will be in Carmel for the whole school term, as it is a course that one can get a great deal out of even in a short time. One of the attractive features will be a course in portraiture which is made possible by the new special lighting system. New students are asked to bring in films for inspection.

The French class is to be conducted by Miss Elizabeth Croftan, who holds a Master's degree from Columbia University, and is a graduate of the University of Paris. Miss Croftan has had wide experience as a teacher and in tutoring and preparing students for advanced examinations. While the general aim of the Adult French Course will be the attainment of fluency in French conversation, complete plans will be discussed at the first meeting and will be adapted insofar as possible to the desires of the group.

There will be two classes of Spanish. The course in conversational Spanish under the direction of Mrs. Sylvia Jordan will be of particular interest to those wishing to begin the study of Spanish and desirous of obtaining a functional speaking knowledge of the language. For the more advanced students, Mr. J. R. McKillop is offering intermediate Spanish, giving those who have had previous work an opportunity to carry on this course. Mrs. Jordan would like to meet all those interested in either Spanish class Monday evening at 7:30 in Room 3, Sunset.

The two courses in Art under the direction of Mrs. Patricia Cunningham offer a wide variety of study in Art which should attract either the beginner or the more advanced student.

A complete list of the Adult School courses is given in an advertisement on page 3.

Mother Gets Letter From Major White Wounded In Action

There was a very happy mother in town this week, Mrs. Sarah White, who received the first letter from her son, Major William G. White, since she received notice from the War Department that he had been wounded in action during the invasion of France.

Major White, whose wife and sons, Earl and John, are living in Baltimore, enlisted in the army from Carmel in 1942. He attended officers' school at Ft. Benning, Georgia, and was sent overseas a year ago.

He says in his letter headed "Somewhere in France, August 30, 'This is a long time in getting to you but I've been having a bit of a time. At present I am back in France for the second time, having lasted over here for eighteen days the last time. I was in the big push which started the 4th of July and that was one Fourth when I had all the fireworks I wanted. I proceeded to get hit twice the Fourth, but managed to keep going till the morning of the seventh when I was hit twice more, this time by shell fragments in the right arm and shoulder, and I ended up in a hospital in Wales."

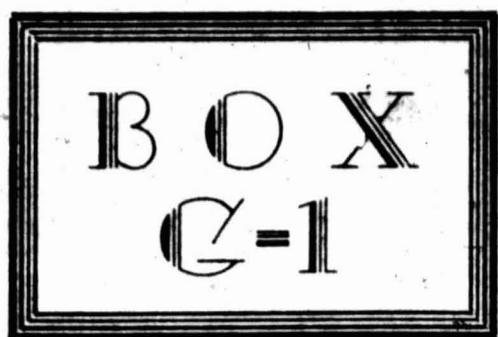

"I have just returned to the Division and am all set to go again, and hope that this time I stay until we reach Berlin. I received a package, or should say, three packages, from you just before leaving the hospital. I was not able to write as I am just getting the use of my right hand and arm again. Thank you very much. The candy was much appreciated as well as the other things. Cigarettes, candy and razor blades (double edged) are things that are hard to get over here."

"The people are quite nice to us. At present I am billeting in a very old French chateau."

"My regards to all our friends—"

RONALD OFF TO SCHOOL

Ronald Kambestad, son of Mrs. Dorothy Kambestad, (Dorothy Loosley) who recently established her home here, left last week for San Francisco to remain with his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Loosley, while he attends fall term at the Dudley Stone school.

The Pine Cone-Cymbal does not make a practice of printing anonymous letters. This one, however, which we received this week, a copy of a letter addressed to the City Council, carries none of the venom that so often lies under anonymity. On the contrary, it makes constructive suggestions to which we and a good many other Carmel people, we believe, would be pleased to see the city council give serious consideration.

Carmel, September 5, 1944.
The City Council
Board of Carmel,
Honourable Sirs:—

Your attention is called to the efforts of some property owners and residents to have clean streets, and suggestions for keeping them presentable are given by Don Blanding in The Pine Cone issues of August 25 and September 1, 1944.

Mountain View Avenue is one of the streets really kept clean by its residents and property owners, but they need your help to complete the job.

From Ocean Avenue, the south side of the block on Mt. View avenue has always been and will likely continue to be an "eye sore" and fire trap. The block is so situated as to catch all the trash thrown from automobiles traveling up the hill on Ocean Avenue, or into Mt. View Avenue. In the tall grass or dried weeds a trashy mess accumulates, consisting of cigarette containers, butts, paper, bags, candy wrappers, and parts of daily newspapers. The larger part of the mess is carried to a home incinerator and burned.

If the grass and dried weeds could be burned off by the city once a year for the Mt. View block

Eighteen Carmel Names Drawn For Andrews Panel

The names of eighteen Carmel people were drawn last week for the panel of 247 Monterey County citizens from which will be selected the jury that will sit for the Andrews murder trial set for 10 A. M., September 19.

Carmel people who will have to appear in court at that time for possible jury service are:

Mrs. Jennie Abernethy, Mrs. Alice Berthold, Mrs. Jean E. Book-er, James Burgess, Hugh W. Comstock, Grover C. Crane, Mrs. Lydia David, Mrs. Mary S. Decker, Bertram Dienelt, Mrs. Margaret M. Dienelt, James J. Doulton, Miss Dora S. Dutton, Mrs. Mathilda Ewig, Mrs. Alice L. Godwin, Frederick M. Godwin, Harrison W. Godwin, Joseph L. Goodrick, Mrs. Mary A. Goold.

Alice Young

Mrs. Alice Young, a resident of Carmel Valley for twenty-three years, passed away in a hospital in Salinas on Monday, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Young was 58 years old at the time of her death.

She was a native of McCune, Kansas, and is survived by her daughter, Mrs. LaNelle King, Guadalupe and Second, Carmel; a son, George R. Young of Carmel Valley; a sister, Mrs. Laura Kennedy, who lives in Florida, and three brothers: Clyde Slain, Parsons, Kansas; Leonard Slain, Huntington Park, California, and Charles Slain, of Kalamazoo, Michigan. Private funeral services were held at Paul's Chapel, the Rev. James Crowther officiated. Interment was at Carmelo Cemetery, Pacific Grove.

from its sidewalk to the property line, this might solve the problem of keeping Mt. View Avenue a clean street.

Respectfully yours,
Ann Optimist.

CAMPGROUND RE-OPENED

The Arroyo Seco Campground in the Monterey District of Los Padres Forest west of Greenfield, closed since August 29th due to failure of the water supply, is once more open to public use, the Forest Service office in King City reports.

This re-opening of the Arroyo Seco Campground in no way affects the closure policy in effect on the rest of the Monterey District, which has been closed since June 15, due to the danger of fire and the lack of manpower to control such fires.

P. Nesbitt Does Illustrations For Anne Fisher Book

Phil Nesbitt, author and illustrator who has just completed twenty-five illustrations for a new children's book by Anne B. Fisher, "Bears, Pirates and Silver Lace," to be published by October 1st, by the Portland, Oregon, firm of Binsford and Mort, says of the new work:

"It is a book distinctly bearing on the local scene. It deals with Old Monterey in the days of the Indians and the Spaniards. It tells of the life surrounding the Carmel Mission, the Valley, the '49-ers and the days when ships from China stopped in Monterey Bay and exchanged their cargoes for the hides of the sea otter. It may be such a volume as will be loved by the people of today who abide in this countryside."

On the day when the book first appears a party will be given for the author and the illustrator by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Binsford. Mr. Binsford is the son of the Portland Publisher and at present he and his wife Janet are making their home in Carmel. "Carmel should be interested in this new book, for it delves deeply into the surcharged romantic past of the soil and people who sustained their lives here a century ago," Nesbitt adds. The first volumes will be obtainable at the Village Book store about October first.

Anne B. Fisher, a vital and talented writer, is the wife of Dr. Fisher of the Hopkins Marine Laboratories in Monterey. She appears to be one of those insatiable writers, to whom everything is grist for the mill. Among the latest works is a new book on Salinas to be published by Farrar & Rhinehart, New York, by this coming spring.

Mrs. Low Speaks At Demo Committee Meet In San Luis Obispo

A meeting of the Democratic State and County Central Committees of Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties, comprising the Eleventh Congressional District, was held on September 10 at San Luis Obispo, to elect a permanent chairman and to discuss the conduct of the coming campaign. Mr. Ralph Kennedy of San Luis Obispo was elected chairman and Mrs. J. J. Dunn of San Luis Obispo was elected Secretary. District leaders told of the local organizations now working to stimulate registration and promote interest in the election.

Among those who spoke from Monterey County were Mrs. Paul Low of Carmel, Niles Cunningham, Mike Powers, Fred Emlay, Bud Kenyon and Mrs. Loretta Taylor of Salinas and Mrs. J. McDonough

MRS. WELLS, AND RAFFLES

The great conversationalists are not all dead. Raffles, the famous Mynah bird rescued from a snake in the Malay Jungle by Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells, is full of conversation. Though he knows no bird language, he has a disconcerting command of English, which he speaks with a pronounced Oxford accent.

Dubbed by Hollywood the "Sinatra of Birdland," Raffles will make three personal appearances at Sunset School Auditorium on September 21, and 22 at 8:15 p. m., and Friday, September 22, Matinee, at 3:30 when his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells, will show their full color motion pictures of the Malay Jungle and "Countries Behind the Battle Fronts." All these pictures have been taken since the outbreak of the present war.

Raffles has appeared at all large hospitals throughout the country entertaining the service men.

LOCAL WOMAN ENLISTS

Miss Frances N. Stewart, of Carmel, was enlisted in the WAC for service with the Signal Corps on August 28, it was announced by the Recruiting Office in Monterey. Miss Stewart will receive her basic training of six weeks at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, and then be assigned to the Signal Corps for further training and duty.

Dr. Crowther Asks Suggestions For Appropriate Celebration Of V-Day At Wayfarer Church League Supper

More than 60 members of the congregation attended the fall supper of the Church League in the social room of the Church of the Wayfarer on Monday evening. Mrs. D. E. Nixon was general chairman for the "planned pot luck" affair, with Miss Etta Paul, Mrs. Lockwood, Mrs. Graham, and Mrs. Lansdowne as the kitchen committee and seven girls of the Sunday School, Carol Graham, Patsy Canoles, Carol Ann Smith, Bernadetta France, Louise Harber, Beverly Cox, and Joan Alice Dillingham waiting on tables.

Newcomers and visitors in the community were introduced to the company by each table hostess. Brilliant tuberous begonias and beautiful gladiolus blossoms furnished by Mrs. La Priele decorated the tables, and gay French marigolds from Miss Etta Paul's garden added a bright note at piano and serving tables.

At the business meeting conducted by the pastor, Dr. James E. Crowther, the treasurer reported $2,782.38 in the treasury and all bills paid; part of this amount will form the nucleus of a fund for needed expansion and improvement of facilities for service to the community when the end of the war removes priorities on materials. Reports on the work of their groups were made by Dr. Blanchard Steeves, chairman of the executive committee; Mrs. Nixon, president of the Women's Auxiliary; Mrs. Catlin, chairman of the work for lepers; and Miss L. L. Turner, chairman of the missionary committee. The church governing body has taken out two more insurance policies, a public liability policy and the standard state employers' liability policy. The pastor expressed appreciation of the members for the beautiful broadloom carpet presented to the church sanctuary by Mrs. La Priele.

Miss Naomi Fletcher, new chairman of religious education, reported on the growth of the Sunday School, the need for more room, more teachers, and more facilities. Sixty small children are in the primary department, with devoted teachers doing an amazingly fine work. One mother said, "You know, I never dreamed a small child could get so much of the concept of God and of spiritual life." The junior department has three grades, and classes are planned for high school boys and for high school girls, but more teachers are urgently needed. A parents' class will begin the coming Sunday, the "fellowship of parents," to meet in the sanctuary, and all interested persons are invited.

Mrs. Nixon displayed the old coffee urn recently presented to the church by Mrs. Sophia Marshall, and a vote of thanks and appreciation was taken, and the secretary, Mrs. Vive Harbor, was asked to write conveying this expression to the donor. Dr. Crowther announced the completion of the booklet containing the constitution of the league, the by-laws of the executive committee, and the constitution of the Women's Auxiliary under one cover, available at a nominal price.

The pastor asked for suggestions for an appropriate recognition and celebration of V-Day when it shall come, instead of the time of empty hilarity that seems to be in the minds of many persons. Such plans, carefully thought out, would embody the real importance and greatness of the occasion so momentous to all the world. An old time "gospel sing" under leadership of Mrs. M. H. Penoyer, wife of a chaplain at Fort Ord, with Miss Fletcher at the piano, closed the program.

Before dismissing the meeting, Dr. Crowther told of two of the great religious services he had attended recently while on vacation in Los Angeles, one in a great Jewish synagogue, filled to the doors, the other in a somewhat smaller Catholic church holding hourly services on a Friday afternoon from 2:00 to 9:00 o'clock, in observance of the Novena of the Sorrowful Mother. The deep religious spirit of these meetings and the earnestness of those attending was very impressive. As he had opened the Wayfarer meeting with a prayer from the Hebrew service, the pastor closed by reading two stanzas from the hymn sung at close of the Novena. —L.L.T.

Back to Elm Street, U.S.A.

Back from the business of killing — to the business of living!

Back from scenes of hatred, despair and destruction to a homeland of peace, hope and opportunity!

Millions of young Americans are coming back to thousands of farms — to thousands of peaceful Elm Streets in every city, town and village of America!

They've made up their minds to a lot of things while they've been away.

They've seen the suffering of homeless terrorized families — people who have lost their self-respect, their hope, their health — everything.

They've seen a large part of the world in ruins, because a few fanatical men sold "gold bricks" to millions of people who traded in their freedom for promises of security — for brightly painted pictures of a "planned economy" under an all-wise, all-powerful government.

And they want no part of that sort of thing here in America.

They want jobs. They want to plan their own lives. Make their own futures. Go places under their own power.

And we must give them that opportunity.

But to do it, wartime restrictions and controls must be removed from agriculture, business — and the individual citizen — as quickly as possible.

Farmers must be free to plant what they want, and as much as they want — without needless bureaucratic supervision.

Taxes must be adjusted so that money will be available to finance the change-over to peacetime production.

Greater incentives must be provided, so that workers can make more money, by making more goods for more people.

Mr. Private Citizen must be allowed to make money — and be free to invest it in business ventures of his own — or of others.

Prosperity has always come to America through the growth of production — not its restriction — on farms and in factories.

Profitable production will make jobs for the boys who are coming back. But business, labor, agriculture and an understanding government must work together to create it — hold it — and increase it.

SPEAKING OF THE INFANTRY

ELOISE CARWYLE

It was an Italian military leader of the early XVI century, Giovanni delle Bande Nere (John of the Black Bands, or Black Armored Troops) who, in modern times, first perceived the supreme value of the infantry in warfare. Not since the Roman legions had moved with measured tread at the command of the Caesars had there risen a captain who recognized the importance of the foot-soldier to the ultimate success of any major engagement. Under Giovanni's leadership the infantry began to acquire fame.

He was born Giovanni de' Medici, in the year 1498. His father, who lived only a few months after the child's birth, was of the younger branch of the Medici family, a descendent of old Cosimo's brother, Lorenzo. His mother, the beautiful and charming Caterina Sforza, was that warrior Countess of Imola and Forli who defied Cesare Borgia when that young man was rampaging over all Romagna at the end of the fifteenth century, and who so valiantly defended her castle of Forli against his aggressive forces. Even the besiegers must have felt a rising valor as she appeared daily upon the walls of the citadel, directing the defenses. Her spirit was akin to that of a great ancestor whose memory she revered—Francesco Sforza, the most distinguished condottiere of his time.

From early boyhood her son Giovanni was absorbed in things military. He saw his first campaign at the age of eighteen, when he was given command of a troop of a hundred cavalry. Though greater distinction attached to the leading of men who rode rather than walked into battle, this original man, whose whole mind was centered upon his profession, soon formed a different opinion. The infantry, he discerned, must always bear the brunt of the fighting, and he arrived at the conclusion that this arm of the service should be given the greatest consideration by any leader who hoped to succeed. He decided to become an infantry commander, and remained one until the end of his life. This departure from the accepted military practice of the day had results that were far-reaching. Within ten years from the time of his 1st engagement he had made himself the greatest commander in Italy, his renown spreading even as far as England.

He was a man of extraordinary bravery and fortitude, was generous, unselfish and modest, and had a wonderful way with his men. He possessed those indefinable qualities which endear a commander to those whom he leads in war. His soldiers idolized him. It is recorded that he was the first commander who exercised a personal care over his troops. He maintained rigid discipline, but his consideration for them and his regard for their interests created unswerving loyalty and a deep affection.

He always wore black armor, as we see it in the portrait by Titian. And his troops wore the black, also. As the fame of the company increased, they became known as the Bande Nere.

The early sixteenth century was a period of incessant war in Italy. There was a succession of invasions from the north. The plain of Lombardy became the battleground of a long contest between France and the German emperor, Charles V. Giovanni was always in the field,—the indispensable leader of the finest infantry

Unmoved, immovable,
Amid the instability of waves!
Beat on me, God! Sear me with salt
And sun, and let the rain's sharp lash,
And bitter fingers of the wind*

Let me grow old, Oh! God!
Old as a rock, and sturdy,
Wise, puissant to the end,

DEPARTURE

*Older than twigs the wind is.
The city is stretched with wind;
straight with the crosses of planes.*

*Call of wind over buildings!
I have listened to its papers,
I have seen its writings.
Yesterday the easel stood in the North light,
magnolias whitened the Ming vase,
ripening was the canvas of fruit.
Now, artists shining in bullets turn a hill.
They are leaving vermillion of stairs,
blue enamel of doors.
This hour I am a brown step on that hill;
my arm tightens on the wind.*

AS ONE BRUSHED BY A BLUE BIRD'S WING

*When in a wood I open pores
Till I thrill to the quickening
Of earth and enter odorous doors,
I will be home from journeying.*

*As one brushed by a blue bird's wing,
I will be cleansed of sweat and stain,
And to the woodfolks' ministering
My scars and sores will heal again.*

*While I can run with a quail flock
And join the chorus the birds sing,
Alone, and need not mind a clock,
I will be through remembering.*

REVIEWS

since ancient times. His intelligent, courageous action in all engagements increased his renown. In 1521 he was holding the line of the Adda. To make a rapid advance upon Milan, he and his entire force swam the river—a remarkable feat. And the city was taken. Early in the year 1525, ten days before the battle of Pavia, he was wounded while reconnoitering the enemy and was carried to Piacenza, where he lay restless, impatient of the circumstance which prevented his taking part in that greatest military event of the century. The French king, Francis I, avowed many times that if Giovanni had been with him he would not have lost the day. A few months later he was again at the head of his troops.

About this time a league was formed between France, Rome, Florence and Venice against Charles V, and Giovanni was placed in command of all the infantry supplied by Rome and Florence, and a corps of a thousand cavalry. In the formation of this league there was a spark of national unity; but it quickly died out. The intrigues of Clement VII, his procrastination, and his vacillating policy, the dissension and lack of confidence among rulers of the several states, defeated its purpose before it could become a burning flame. Lodovico Sforza, at an earlier day, had said: 'Italy? What is Italy? I have never seen it.' Nor did this century see it.

The situation gave Charles V his opportunity and he seized the advantage, pressing the war with vigor. The commander of the allied forces, the Duke of Urbino, was out-generated by the Duke of Bourbon, and compelled to retire. Hordes of the emperor's troops poured over the Alpine passes into the Lombard plain. Giovanni's efforts to check their advance were hindered on all sides by local interest and a spirit of expediency. With four thousand of his Bande Nere he was harrying the Germans, attempting to prevent their concentration in overwhelming numbers, awaiting the while his opportunity to strike a decisive blow. It was decided to engage them in the plain of Governolo. There was a fierce encounter on the bank of the Mincio—four days of desperate fighting—and Giovanni, leading with his usual dauntless courage, was struck by a ball from the enemy's artillery and severely wounded. The fury of the attack subsided. His devoted followers, stunned by their loss, carried him through the falling snow to Mantua. One who was present wrote, 'His whole household, forgetting fear and respect, surged about him, everyone trying to catch his eye to show him his grief.' The hours passed. All were waiting and listening and hoping. The winter twilight deepened; the wind was moaning. And still they waited. The night descended. And then the bright hope of Italy's success at arms, he who might have become her liberator, closed his eyes forever. He was just twenty-eight years old, but his name was ringing throughout Italy. It was the end of the year 1526. Before the revolving wheel of time should bring another December, Rome would be sacked by the German armies under Charles de Bourbon.

Giovanni's soldiers mourned him for years, and in their old age they held his memory dear. Even after he was gone, they fought on under his banner, adding honor to a name already glorious.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

The Church School will open this Sunday at 9:30 A. M., and the full Vested Choir will return at the 11 A. M. Service after the vacation recess. The Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, will deliver the sermon message at the morning Prayer Service at 11 A. M., and the usual Sunday Holy Communion Service is scheduled for 8 A. M. The Offertory Anthem will be Dykes' "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say." Thursday, September 21, Day of Saint Matthew, 10:15 A. M., Service of the Holy Communion. Presentation of the United Thank Offerings.

All Saints' Church is a Home of Prayer for all People, and welcomes the visitor to Carmel. Intercessions for the men and women in the service of our country at each worship hour. Children can be left in the church school during the 11 A. M. service in charge of a competent person.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

"Springs in the Desert," will be Dr. Crowther's sermon theme next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. The Church School at 9:45 has classes for all age-groups from Beginners through High School; also a Fellowship class for parents in the Sanctuary. The Church Service begins at 11. Visitors are cordially invited to share in this hour of worship.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven." These words from Proverbs comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, September 17, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Matter."

Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people," (Matt. 4:23).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Sci-

RED + NEWS

By HELEN A. FIELD

Our government has sent out a call for ten thousand more trained nurses to go into the service of the Armed Forces before the first of the year. This will put an added strain on our civilian hospitals, already under-staffed. Volunteer Nurses Aides will be needed to take the places of regular nurses in greater numbers than ever before. It may even be that, with the enormous casualties on both the European and the Pacific fronts, Nurses Aides will be needed not only in civilian hospitals but also in military hospitals. Every woman who can, should avail herself at her earliest opportunity to become a trained Nurses Aide. That opportunity is now offered by the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross. Register NOW for the Nurses Aide class at Red Cross Headquarters on Dolores Street near Seventh. The first meeting of the class will be held on Monday, September 25th, instead of on the 18th as previously announced.

The Carmel Red Cross Gray Ladies take magazines to the patients at the ASF Regional Hospital at Ft. Ord every Tuesday and Thursday. Reading the current magazines is one of the most enjoyed pastimes of our boys in the wards and one that helps to keep their morale high as they await recovery. At present there are not enough magazines to meet the demand for them at the hospital. The Gray Ladies are making an urgent request that the people of Carmel, who surely are anxious to help our servicemen, leave their magazines at Red Cross either in the box outside the front door or at the Staff Assistance desk just inside the entrance at Headquarters on Dolores Street. It is to be remembered only current magazines are needed. Especially liked by the boys are Time, Life, Readers Digest, Colliers, Saturday Evening Post, The New Yorker, Newsweek, Popular Science, and Popular Mechanics.

why JAPS wear thick glasses!

Togo studied with all his might, He studied by day...he studied by night, But little Togo ruined his Sight, Straining his eyes under very poor light.

Sam's boy...he's tops in all classes, He wears no Jap-thick glasses, He strengthened his eyes... improved his Sight, Using his eyes under the right kind of Light.

Better light for better Sight.

Remember how we used to advise about Better Light for Better Sight? Thousands of good parents took this advice...gave their boys lamps that made studying easier on the eyes. That good work is paying dividends now. Our American boys shoot faster and more accurately than Japs encumbered with thick glasses. . . . Keep up this good work, parents. For the young ones at home now provide Better Light for Better Study Sight. Good lighting is so cheap it does not pay to skimp it.

Tokio Friendship Renewed

Miss Gertrude Tweedie, for 38 years a missionary in Japan, spent three days here last week the guest of Prof. and Mrs. Blanchard Steeves, coming immediately from San Francisco where she had arrived on a cargo ship from Australia. When Americans were ordered to leave Japan shortly before the outbreak of hostilities, Miss Tweedie was among the last to evacuate. She went first to Shanghai, then to Australia, where she has been three years awaiting passage to the United States. After two days' visit with Mrs. Steeves, she continued on her way to Toronto where she has many relatives and friends, and where she intends to make her home.

Neighborhood Party

Mrs. Henry Jay, Mrs. George Eckhardt, and Mrs. William L. Starnes entertained at a get-together party Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. H. F. Handy and Mrs. Gordon Fletcher. A savory Irish stew cooked in the fire place was the feature of the dinner. Beside the guests of honor, those enjoying the hospitality of the hostesses were: Mrs. Alfred Balsam, Mrs. William Gunther, Mrs. L. J. Stewart and Mrs. J. E. Barlow.

Town and Country

Mrs. Andre DaMiano, Mrs. Mathew Jenkins, and Miss Barbara Jenkins spent a few days last week in San Francisco and at the Jenkins ranch, El Rancho Primero, near Livingston. Mrs. Jenkins is living at present at her summer place at Pebble Beach. Barbara leaves this week for Chadwick School at Rolling Hills, California, and the Jenkins boys, Peter and Jonathan, are attending Sunset School.

Pay-off for Drunkard Cast

Father Michael D. O'Connell invited the entire cast of The Drunkard and all those who contributed to the success of the production to a dance at Crespi Hall at the Mission on Wednesday evening. It was a gala affair with a small band furnishing music. Punch and delicious refreshments were served. The party was given in recognition of those who worked so tirelessly to add to the fund for the parochial school.

From Happy Valley

Mrs. F. A. Greatwood has as her guest her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Royce Greatwood, of Lafayette in Happy Valley. Lieut. Commander Royce Greatwood is in the Naval Reserve and is now stationed in Ceylon.

Adult School Principal Arrives

John Westover, principal of the Carmel Adult School, arrived last week, accompanied by his wife and son Ralph. They have moved into Oak Nook on Camino Real between 12th and 13th.

Mr. Westover comes from La Grande, Oregon, where he taught physics in the Army Air Corps college training detachment at Eastern Oregon College. Prior to his work in Oregon, he was employed in electrical engineering at Boulder Dam and at the Moore Dry Dock Co. in Oakland. His public school work includes a number of years as high school instructor, athletic coach and school administrator in Idaho and Montana. He has a B. S. degree from the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology, a Master's degree from the University of Wyoming, and has additional graduate work from the University of Wyoming and the University of Chicago. The Westovers are very enthusiastic about the friendly spirit of the people and the great beauty of the country here at Carmel.

Glad to Be in a Fog

Lieut. Jack Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin of Carmel Valley, who spent a six-day leave at his home on Ridgewood Road, has returned to his ship, the Airplane Carrier Hollandia. Lieut. Martin welcomed the Carmel fog after duty in the South Seas.

Guest of Mrs. Balsam

Mrs. LeRoy T. Collins arrived Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Alfred Balsam.

Located on Carmelo

Mrs. William Gilmore and her two daughters have come from Sebastopol and will make their home in Carmel. They have taken a house on Carmelo south of Ocean. Mrs. Gilmore is the wife of Col. William Gilmore who is serving overseas.

On Prop. 1 Committee

Mrs. Wm. H. Muscutt, Mrs. E. H. Ewig and Mrs. Markham Johnston of Carmel have been appointed to the state-wide Women's Committee of the World War II Veterans' Farm and Home group, according to State Chairman Mrs. L. B. McKinnon of Concord. The women's committee will work with men's groups in several hundred cities and towns of California to campaign for the adoption of Proposition No. 1 on the November 7 state election ballot. This measure provides for a $30,000,000 bond issue for the purchase of homes and farms for Veterans of World War II.

Corp. Artellan in Oregon

Mrs. Litton Has Departed

Mrs. Charles V. Litton, who has been the guest of her father, Col. E. Landon of San Antonio St., has returned to her country home near Redwood City.

Allen Wood on Leave

Just in time for a family reunion, Lt. (j.g.) Allen Wood, U.S. N.R., serving as an engineer on a merchant vessel, made port in San Francisco after an extended cruise in the South Pacific. His mother, Mrs. Helene Wood, had gone to the city to meet her brother William Binder, who had flown out from New York, and her sister Mrs. Olive Gordon of Cleveland. Following a visit with his aunt and uncle, Allen came home with his mother to Carmel for several days' stay, returning to San Francisco last Thursday. His brother John, one of the Marine Raiders in the recent occupation of Guam, writes home that he is none the worse for the action.

Plenty of Yarn—Few Knitters

The Thrift Shop on Dolores, which features both bundles for sale and bundles for America, has received a lot of yarn and needs knitters for V-neck and turtle-neck sweaters, helmets, gloves, scarves and watchers' caps. Yarn comes in two colors, one for articles designed for America and another for Britain. Choose your color and start knitting.

Pianist in Carmel

Mrs. Elsa Woolams has as her guests for the month of September her sister Mrs. Aimee Gay, a pianist from Washington, D. C., her niece Mrs. Joseph Watson and her son Richard Gay Watson of Indianola, Iowa.

Lt. Craig Minus Jg.

"Exactly like Pebble Beach—" Lt. D. M. Craig, former Carmel High School Spanish and Journalism instructor, now a P. T. Boat commander somewhere in the Mediterranean, writes to Superintendent J. W. Getsinger in describing a section of the coast of southern France; "pine wooded hills, beautiful villas, cliffs and sandy beaches. The water is warm and deep, clear blue, and swimming is an all day diversion, but we steer clear of the beaches because of land mines." There has been a recent up in rank, for the j. g. has been dropped from the Lt. on the return address corner of the envelope. Mrs. Craig continues to make her home in Carmel.

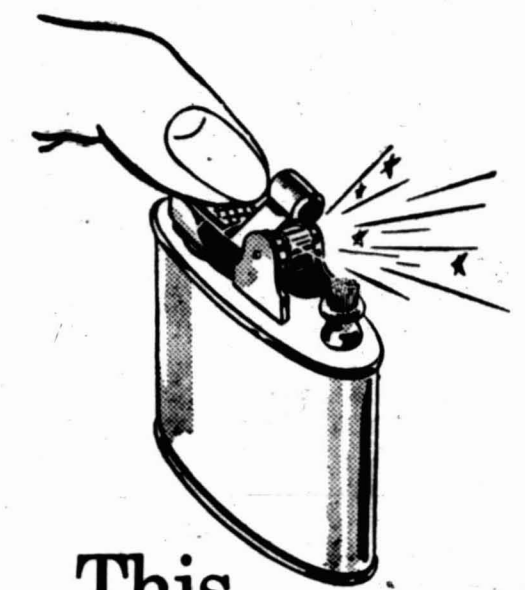

Speak Japanese with Ease

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low entertained at dinner Thursday evening in honor of Capt. Lee Schneider and Lieut. Kenneth Brown. Lieut. Brown is in charge of instruction of the Japanese language at Ft. Ord. Both he and Capt. Schneider studied Japanese at the University of Chicago. The officers also attended the Civil Affairs School at Ft. Custer, Michigan, at the same time Mr. and Mrs. Low's son, Lieut. Kirby Low, who is now in France, was there. Other guests were Mrs. Mary Beth Gros and Mrs. Amy Falk.

For Neighbors Only

Mrs. Louise Grigsby assisted by Mrs. Dudley Kinsell gave a tea Sunday afternoon for her neighbors who have been eager to see the transformation Mrs. Grigsby has made in her home by recent re-decoration. The lovely and unusual use of color has moved Mrs. Grigsby to give her home the name Casa de Colores (House of Colors.)

Mrs. Timmins Returned from City
Mrs. Frank Timmins and her son Frankie and daughter Barbara have returned from a week in San Francisco.

Maev Greenan, Ruland Hardy Jr.

Each guest at the tea given by Mrs. Edith Greenan received a gardenia and among the petals was a tiny scroll with the names Maev Margaret Greenan and Captain Ruland Hardy, Jr. In this way the engagement of the young couple was announced. Miss Greenan is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Greenan of Carmel and Mr. J. O. Greenan of Nevada. She attended the Douglas School here. Captain Hardy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruland Hardy of Orland, California, a graduate of the University of California, and a Phi Gamma Delta. He is stationed at Ft. Ord with a Field Artillery Unit.

The rooms were decorated with white dahlias, and the tea tables, presided over by Mrs. George Chapman (Ann Whitman), was decorated with candelabra, white daisies, and white stock on a lace cloth. Guests at the tea included Miss Jean and Eleanor Harris, house guests from Beverly Hills, the Misses Louise Doud, Zaida Martin, Geanne Weil, Patsy and Gerry Shepard, Charlotte Townsend and Mary Jean Matthews. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Serves Him Right

Artist Sam B. Colburn recently abandoned the simple and unaffected life Carmel has to offer for Rawling, New York, with a side trip to Gloucester, Massachusetts, about which he complains: "I just returned from deeyah, old Glostah, where the natives are doing their the English language. In that land best to remove the 'r' sound from of vacations, artists, and fishermen good old 'pop' is called 'tonic' and waitresses instead of asking 'what'll ya have to drink?' say instead, 'What beverage will you have, Sir?'" He adds that his address is now Chappagua, New York, until further notice.

Circle Meeting

The South Circle of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer will meet on Tuesday, September 19, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. W. H. Hamilton on Junipero street near 7th. Membership in this circle embraces those living south of Ocean avenue. Women may bring their knitting, sewing, or mending. In recognition of the importance of understanding and appreciating the minority nationalities in our country, a program about the earliest peoples of the country, the American Indian, will be given. Women of the congregation are invited to come and get acquainted.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wood of San Francisco arrived in Carmel Monday.

Two Anniversaries Celebrated

The wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ross and the birthday of Miss Rachel Morton were celebrated last Sunday with a barbecue at the Mesa home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross in Monterey. The guests enjoyed brilliant sunshine, a trip through the conservatories filled with masses of orchids and begonias. A feature of the dinner was a birthday cake with candles for Miss Morton. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lewis Snyder, Mark Hitchcock of Robles del Rio, Mrs. Frederick Morton and Miss Anne Barrows.

Lt. Col. Clayton to Ft. Sill

Lieutenant Colonel Jack T. Clayton arrived at the Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, this week with the 530th Field Artillery battalion, the unit which he commands. His wife and children, Phyllis, 2, and Doyle, 18 months, are living at Carpenter and Fifth. Before coming to Carmel, he was stationed at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

Surprise

Birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Louise Grigsby and Dr. J. B. McCarthy were celebrated by a surprise party given last Saturday evening at the McCarthy home in Hatton Fields. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger, and Mrs. Vera Peck Millis.

Mrs. Bardarson Here

Here from San Francisco for a three-weeks' vacation is former Carmelite Mrs. Gertrude Bardarson who arrived last week bringing son Linne with her. Elder son Baird joined her this week. They are sharing Mrs. Jesusa Guidi Fremont's cottage on Ocean and Santa Rita. Mrs. Bardarson is a radio technician for the office of war information.

From Florida

Prof. Rest C. Smith of Rollins College, Florida, is spending two weeks here with his cousin, Miss Ida Maynard Curtis.

the Wilson building. There, also, the city trustees met when Carmel achieved a population of 500 in 1916 and was incorporated into a city.

In a little over a month after its arrival, on September 15, 1915, the new chemical engine had an opportunity to shine: George Creaser's auto caught fire on Carmel Hill. The new chemical was towed to the fire behind one of Charles Gould's cars, and when the Fire Department arrived, burning gasoline (from a broken fuel line) was flowing across the road and into the brush with large possibilities of a forest fire almost immediately. The gallant crew, 40 in all, saved the forest and most of the auto.

But the chemical, which was simply a tank of water on wheels, the "chemical" consisting in the action of acid on soda and water, which produced enough pressure in the tank to force a stream of water through a hose, soon proved inadequate. On November 22, 1916, shortly after six o'clock in the evening, "the new Basham cottage on Carmelo Avenue went up in flames," to quote the Pine Cone. "Mr. and Mrs. Walter Basham were to move in Sunday. While playing a stream on the embers, Basham remarked, 'Well, Boys, it's all in a life-time; look at the fine concrete foundation I have left.' Quick response of the department kept neighboring dwellings from going up in flames."

A few months later the board of trustees—the then city council—decided to install ten fire hydrants (only eight were actually installed) and to purchase 300 feet of hose and a hose cart. And on December 20, 1917, the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department came under municipal control. It turned over its equipment and membership to the city, but retained the right to elect its own officers. There were thirty-five members. City trustees at the time were: A. P. Fraser, Mrs. E. J. de Sabla, G. F. Beardsley, Peter Taylor and D. W. Johnson. City clerk was J. E. Nichols, city treasurer, L. S. Slevin, city marshal, A. Englund, and city attorney, J. E. Jorgenson, who now has "judge" before his name and presides in superior court in Salinas.

Carmel was a bustling community, still not much over 500-inhabitant size, but evidently everybody belonged to something, for there were in the community a boys' club, school board, CUI Club, Sanitary Board, Manzanita Club, Library, Camp Fire Girls, Orchestra, Star Theatre Club, Young Men's Club, Red Cross Chapter, Forest Theatre Society, Western Drama Society, Christian Science Society, Belgian Relief Committee, Carmel Missionary Society, Modern Woodmen of America, Carpenters and Joiners Local, Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts with an Art, Dramatic, Civic, Crafts, Literary, Music and Audubon sections, Methodist Episcopal Church with a church league and Protestant Episcopal church (All Saints) with St. Anne's Guild.

The hose cart and eight hydrants seemed enough. Then came one of the few real tragedies in Carmel's history. The widow of Ralph Chandler Harrison, who had donated to the city a fund for the establishment of a library in memory of her husband, lost her life in the fire when her home on the corner of Camino Real and Ninth burned to the ground. The last hydrant was at 8th and Monte Verde. There wasn't enough hose. After that, the city put in more hydrants and bought its first pumper, the La Verne in 1923.

The La Verne was first housed in the galvanized garage near Wilson's, but was shortly moved to the wooden garage on Sixth street behind Bishops' restaurant, which, with the garage across the street where the Mack pumper and salvage truck were housed when the city bought them in 1930, remained Carmel's fire houses until 1937 when the present fire house was built, and when nineteen citizens put up $100 each to buy half a lot at auction on the courthouse steps in Salinas.

But Carmel had several more historic fires before the department's equipment reached its present complement. In two of them at least, the department had no hope of saving the building, but had to exert all its energy to saving the town. In both of them the weather proved the hero.

On the evening of December 20, 1924, La Playa Hotel—some wit had named it The Chocolate Castle because its original owner, Chris Jorgensen had married into the Ghiradelli chocolate family—was burned to its foundations when an overheated stove ignited the woodwork. But before it simmered down to controllable proportions, it was a gigantic torch whipped by a gale that would have spread it through the town in short order but for the hail that accompanied the wind. "We found charred shingles from the roof of the hotel up in Eighty Acres the next day. But the hail put them out so the fire didn't spread."

A heavy rain saved the town when Cabbages and Kings burned down in April of 1926. The neighboring buildings were threatened and, though the firemen did their utmost, the town was holding its breath, when the wind changed and it began to rain.

Heartbreaking was the destruction of Ted Kuster's beautiful Golden Bough Theatre on May 19, 1935—Carmel's last big fire. "A great loss," said Leidig, "not only in dollars, but a loss to the community of a cultural center."

These were the big fires, remembered because they were spectacular, much easier to remember than the hundreds of little fires, that would have been big but for the earnest and efficient efforts of the volunteer firemen. Whenever these unpaid volunteers had adequate equipment, and the fire was not hopelessly advanced before the alarm was given, they were more than adequate to the situation.

Those who know him well and have worked with him say that Leidig, who was assistant fire chief until the resignation of J. E. Nichols in 1925, and chief until 1941, foresaw the need of increased equipment and asked for it, often futilely until a serious fire and a scare convinced the trustees and the town that he was right. The groundwork for the remarkably efficient volunteer organization Carmel now has was laid while Leidig was chief. Most of the important equipment was bought during that period, and the town voted bonds for the new fire house which was built in 1937. And so great was the support Leidig had won for the fire department that in one afternoon, he and Bernard Rowntree, then fire commissioner, "borrowed" $1900 in $100 chunks from 19 citizens. The bond election for the fire house had not yet been held, but half of the lot on which the city wished to build the fire house belonged to an estate and was to be auctioned off on the courthouse steps at Salinas immediately. The other half of the lot was secured by option, but only cash would satisfy the court, and $1900 was needed—before the passage of the bonds. Leidig and Rowntree called on a group of Carmel citizens asking for $100 from each to buy a piece of land that the city would buy back from them if the bond election passed. If the bonds failed, the contributors would each own one-nineteenth of half a lot. Twenty-one citizens were approached. Two refused, one "with tears in his eyes because he didn't have the cash to put up," Rowntree tells.

Only when he insisted that his health would no longer stand the rigors of the job would the city council accept Leidig's resignation as fire chief in 1941. In a resolution passed at the time, the council spoke of "his long and faithful service in capacity of Chief of the Fire Department," pointed out that it was "through his ability and industry the Carmel Fire Department has earned an enviable reputation for efficiency," and tendered the "sincere appreciation of the City Council and the citizens to Mr. Leidig."

Then they appointed him immediately to the office of Fire Marshal, a department created a year earlier because other towns of the sixth class have them, but it had never been filled. With Leidig as Fire Marshal, the Bureau of Fire Prevention became a live office through which he carries on his almost life-long preoccupation, education of the public in how to avoid fire and the tragedy and destruction it leaves in its wake.

And he catches them young. It is he who instituted the popular Carmel custom of giving the school children rides on the fire engine to the fire house during fire prevention week, and letting them ring the bell!

Pine Needles

Oh, Yeah! Jimmie

The Pine Cone is in receipt of a card from New York, from Jim Southwell, with the following "social" note about himself: "Mr. J. M. Southwell, Jr., has just returned from a pleasant business and pleasure trip to Scotland and France. He reports a poor grouse season in Scotland but excellent shooting in France. The doughnuts and coffee at Cherbourg Red Cross were worth going there for. Only lack of time prevented Jim S. from going on to Berlin for the winter opera season." A check up with Mr. Southwell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Southwell, on Lincoln Street, confirmed this department's suspicions that Jimmy has returned from another voyage as AB board a merchant vessel; his last was aboard a freighter carrying gasoline along the coast of South America. When he went east to sign up for the Atlantic voyage, he took his wife and youngsters, Jean and James the Third, so that they could visit with Mrs. Southwell's parents while he was away. Both the James Southwells, and the James Southwells, Jr., have been Carmel residents for about eight years.

Jules Meulemans Prisoner Of War

Jules' letter to his uncle, translated from the French by Miss Evelyn Eaton, follows:

April 11, 1944

Dear Uncle:

I wish by this present to greet you and wish you a good and happy year as well as perfect health. Excuse me for being so late in getting to it, but it isn't my fault, for I did not have your address, and mother has only now decided to send it to me.

Dear Uncle, here it is already four years since I have been in youth lost, for I am now thirty, captivity. What beautiful years of not yet married, and no longer engaged, for 6 weeks ago my fiancée announced that she wanted to be free. Well, what could you expect? It has been going on for so long and one can't yet see the end, but in spite of all I always keep up hope, and my morale is as good as my health. Mother wrote me that she hadn't received any news of me for four months. And Cousin Edward—what is he doing now? and Cousin Bernadette and her family?

Here the temperature is not as good as that of our little Belgium, for it is too cold here.

Please, dear uncle, and cousins, accept my affectionate regards.

Your Godson,
Jules.
